

Our entire Cast and Crew spent 5 full weekends (Fri's & Sat's @ 15 hrs each day) back to back making the full feature Broken Clay

Once Broken Clay was wrapped, the D.P., who was also the Editor, not only held onto the files for almost 6 months without editing anything, there were also so many files that were lost and broken

I had to hire another Editor. That Editor was the one who discovered all the broken and missing files.

The new Editor said there was no way he could properly edit Broken Clay into the full feature it was meant to be since there was so many missing and broken files

I asked the new Editor if there were at least enough files to make a trailer out of it since all the Cast and Crew worked so hard on the movie and the full feature could be re-made later. He said yes but he'd only be able to create a trailer with what he had to work with. I said let's do it

The new Editor took a broken Broken Clay and not only created a trailer out of it, but, Broken Clay the trailer went on to win 20 awards
